

Islamic Studies

Want to learn more about Islamic Law?
Enjoy travelling and experiencing other cultures?
Interested in Economics/Business from an Islamic perspective?

...then studying in Indonesia could be for you!!!

ACICIS (the Australian Consortium for 'In-Country' Studies) enables students to spend six months at an Islamic university in Indonesia. The experience will give participants a greater understanding of Islam in general and how Muslim values can and do affect approaches to business and law.

Who Can Apply

Anyone who is interested in Islamic Studies may apply. No background in Indonesian is required.

Student Life and Accommodation:

- enjoy a 3-day live-in orientation on arrival.
- are assigned an English-speaking personal tutor for the whole semester to help you to navigate life in Indonesia, to be a friend, and to maximise your understanding of Indonesian life and culture and Indonesian language acquisition.
- have the opportunity to observe firsthand how Islamic business operates by taking part in an internship placement with an Indonesian business in Yogyakarta. In order to facilitate easy communication, an Indonesian interpreter/ internship partner will accompany each student. Students will be required to write a work report of between 3000 and 4000 words and present their report in a class seminar.
- have the option of taking other units in English such as Introduction to Indonesian Language and Culture.
- can board with a Muslim family during your stay
- are awarded a Certificate of Achievement in Islamic Business Studies on successful completion of the semester.

Gain credit towards your degree!

Recognising the high quality of Study Indonesia Program courses and ACICIS' reputation as the largest and best-supported provider of semester-long in-country Indonesian study options, most institutions are happy to give credit for successful completion of the Study Indonesia Program. ACICIS Member Universities generally award students full credit for each semester-long ACICIS course.
