

Australia Indonesia Governance Research Partnership (AIGRP)
Young Scholars Workshop
Jakarta, 1-8 December, 2009

The AIGRP Young Scholars Workshop provides a rare opportunity for Australian and Indonesian post-graduate students to present their research to an audience of senior academics from both countries. Participants will receive intensive academic mentoring to build important skills in the areas of research design, thesis writing and presenting research. Students will also be able to discuss policy and governance challenges in Indonesia with Australian and Indonesian academics and government officials.

Participants will arrive in Jakarta between 1 December, and depart on Wednesday 9 December. Airfares and all associated costs will be covered by the AIGRP.

This opportunity is open to post-graduate students (Honours and Masters students are strongly encouraged to apply) whose research interests relate to contemporary issues in Indonesia. Applicants who previously have not approached their subject in terms of policy and governance will still be considered. Students who will complete their studies during 2009 are also eligible. Applications close on 31 August.
